

Multidisciplinary Language Research Seminar

01 June 2016

The Language at Leeds PGR group hosted another seminar on multidisciplinary language research last week on Wednesday.

The group invited Hannah Betts (<https://goo.gl/vqjLD4>), a PhD student in the Department of Experimental Psychology at University College London. Hannah presented her work examining how “multiple recent encounters with a word-meaning affect ambiguous word interpretation” (<https://goo.gl/jwWUPy>).

The talk attracted both postgraduate students and staff interested in language comprehension and memory, and ended with fascinating discussions about the implications of Hannah’s work.

Greg Maciejewski

